VIEWS DIFFER
ON "NORWAYS"New York Handlers Express
Their Opinions to the Fishing Gazette.

"I consider the market for Norways just what they will bring on actual bidding and sale," said a leading New York authority last Wednesday. "I don't subscribe to that attitude which places a fictitious value on fish just because one considers them worth a fancy figure. I honestly don't think that prices for Norway mackerel will go any higher. I am sure that the representative of the Norway fishermen's Union did not realize his ambitions. In fact, he went home this week a very disappointed man. He was much taken aback by the limited amount of business he did here, and openly said so."

The early receipts of Norway salt mackerel seem not to have given satisfaction to buyers on the score of quality, judging by complaints now being filed," said a leading New York authority, Thursday.

The following opinion was delivered by the executive head of a leading New York house this week:

"There have been large arrivals of Norway mackerel and quite a little business has been done. There has been no trouble whatever to dispose of real fine, fat autumn mackerel, but unfortunately a lot of Norway mackerel has arrived here which showed poor or mixed quality, and receivers of these lots are having troubles of their own. On the whole prices for Norwegian mackerel are very reasonable at the present time, and it is the general belief that prices are very likely to show a smart advance before long."

"The Norway mackerel market closed strong last week," said a reliable New York authority. "Efforts by certain short interests to bear the market came to naught. The demand is not active, but fairly good for the season," he concluded.

Dingle, October 5—There were about 60,000 Irish mackerel landed here last week. Of these about 50,000 were cured, and will count about 380 fish to a packed barrel.

Catch of mackerel in Norway.—Sea packed mackerel landed in Norway from the North Sea, salted for export to America for the week ending September 26, 1914, 2630 bbls.; total to date, 34,321 bbls. Number of boats, 408. Total catch in 1913, 33,673 bbls. by 363 boats; in 1912, 42,293 bbls. by 536 boats; in 1911, 45,654 bbls. by 758 boats. Total catch of mackerel in the coast fishery to date in 1914, 9,971,110 fish, of which 1,734,260 were salted.—Fishing Gazette.

Whaling Station to Close Soon.

The Pacific Sea Products Company, which operates a whaling station at Akutan Harbor, Alaska, expects to close the plant for the season on October 10. The latest news received from the station was under date of September 1, and at that time 250 whales had been killed.
